Meet The Animal: Elephant

Elephants live in Sub-Saharan Africa, South East Asia, and South Asia. They live in different habitats such as savannahs, forests, deserts, and marshes. They are herbivores, and stay close to water if it is accessible. The female elephants live together with their offspring, while the males live alone, or with other males. The female group is often led by the oldest female.

Elephants can live up to 70 years old in the wild. They are very smart, their intelligence has been compared to primates and cetaceans. They communicate through touch, sight, smell, and sound. They appear to be self-aware, and show empathy to dying and dead family members.

African elephants are listed as vulnerable, and Asian elephants as endangered. One of the biggest threats to elephants is the ivory trade, as they are poached for their ivory tusks. Other threats to wild elephants are habitat destruction and conflicts with local people. Predators to elephants are lions, tigers, hyenas, and wild dogs, which typically go after baby elephants.

Have you ever seen an elephant before? If so, was it at the zoo, or the circus?

Community Worker: Doctor

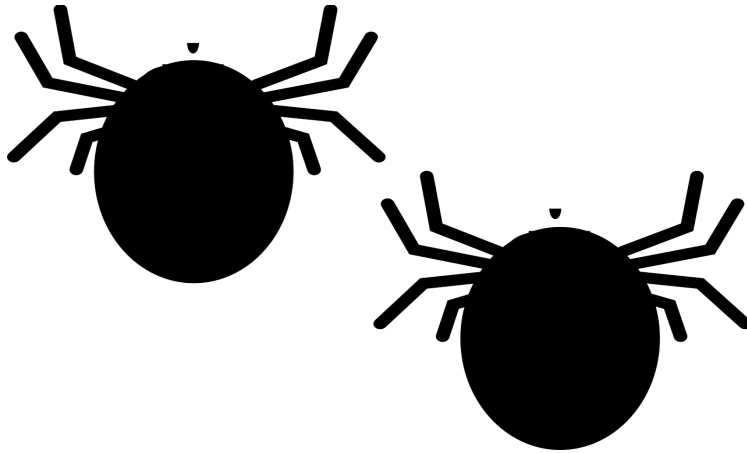

A doctor practices medicine, and is concerned with maintaining, or restoring health to an individual. This is done through the study, diagnosis, prognosis, and treatment of disease, injury, and other physical and mental impairments. A doctor might focus their practice on certain diseases, types of patients, and specialties, or general practice, which is the maintaining of one's health.

Some doctors are known as surgeons. Surgeons perform surgical procedures, often called operations. Here too, surgeons can have different specialties, for example some surgeons operate on just the heart, or the brain.

To become a doctor one has to work very hard, and do a lot of work. One has to go to a university for four years, and then a medical school for an additional four years, and then finally they work at a hospital under supervision for four more years, this is called residency.

Do you think it would be fun to be a doctor? Has your doctor ever helped you to feel better?

I woke Up Sunday Morning

I woke up Sunday morning I looked up at the wall,
The beetles and the bedbugs were having a game of ball,
The score was 6 to nothing, the beetles were ahead
The bedbugs got a homerun, they knocked me outta bed,

I'm singin' eenie meenie and a miny moe, moe, moe, moe
Catch a wiffer waffer by the toe and if he hollers, hollers, hollers
Let him go I'm singing, eenie meenie and a miny moe.

I woke up Sunday morning and ordered ham and eggs,
I ate so many eggs, they all ran down my legs.

I'm singin' eenie meenie and a miny moe, moe, moe, moe,
Catch a wiffer waffer by the toe and if he hollers, hollers, hollers,
Let him go I'm singin' eenie meenie and a miny moe.

My father is butcher,
My mother is a spy,
And if you don't believe me just call the FBI.

I'm singin' eenie meenie and a miny moe, moe, moe, moe,
Catch a wiffer waffer by the toe and if he hollers, hollers, hollers,
Let him go I'm singin' eenie meenie and a miny moe.
